They Will Frobably Vote to Robuild the Opera House and Reorganise the Company. Although no final measure was decided upon yesterday at the meeting of the stockholders of the Metropolitan Opera House at 33 Wall street, the indications still are that the building will be restored. About twenty stockolders were present and others were represented by proxy. Among those present or represented were W. C. Whitney, Cornelius and W. K. Vanderbilt, D. O. Mills, H. G. Marquand, G. P. Wetmore, Luther Kountze, Adrian Iselin, Robert Goelet, H. R. Bishop, G. H. Warren, H. McK. Twombly, J. Pierpont Morgan, and George L. Rives. S. D. Babcock presided.

The directors presented a report of their investigations and also a statement showing what it would cost to restore the building. The lowest estimate was $200,000, of which $150,000 would be needed for the building and $50,000 for singe appurtenances. Other estimates, however, brought the total cost up to about $600,000. The directors' communication declared in favor of rebuilding, provided thirty-six stockholders, or enough to form a majority, voted in favor of it. In that event each stockholder might be assessed $18,000 majority, voted in favor of it. In that event each stockholder might be assessed $18,000 to pay for the restoration. That would be the limit of cost to each, and it was hoped that much less would be required.

The directors' plan also included a reorganization of the commany. If it is decided to rebuild, the mortrages will probably be fore-closed. There are two of these one for $600,000 on the ground and one for $210,000 on the building. The foreclosure of these would practicully who out the interests of those who did not join in the reorganization, as the property would be bought in by a company composed of such of the present stockholders as are willing to continue to support the enterprise. Of course, it is nossible that the price of the property may be run up to a larger amount than needed to pay off the mortgages. In that event any surpus would haurs to the benefit of all the old stockholders. It is not probable, however, that anybody will bid more than the value of the mortgages at the weating, together with some suggestions by Abbey, Schoefiel & Grau as to the arrangement of boxes and seats. This firm of managers had expressed the opinion that it would be wiss to make the seats smaller than they were, thus leaving more standing room. The stockholders of the theory of the present could understand the situation.

Mr. James Harriman, one of the boxholders, suggested that a good way to settle the present difficulties would be to reorganize as a national opera company, and allow men all over the country to become stockholders. The stockholders adjourned until next Friday noon, when they will meet at Mr. Babcock's office at 32 Nassau street. One of the stockholders and after the meeting that he believed a number of the present would be dropped by the reorganization.

CITY IMPROVEMENTS OBSTRUCTED. Commissioner Gilroy Blames Three Alder

Commissioner Gilroy said yesterday that some members of the Board of Aldermen are blocking public improvements from no other motive seemingly than a spirit of contrariety. He named James A. Cowie, the Republican member from the Thirteenth district; Whitfield Van Cott, Republican from the Seventh. and Joseph Martin. Voorhis man from the Tenth, as the worst offenders in this regard.

It requires a concurrent vote of twenty members of the Board to adopt any resolution requiring the expenditure of public money, so that one or two Aldermen can frequently defeat a resolution of that character. Commissioner Gilroy has been very anxious to pave several streets on the west side which run to the water front. Under the land grants such parts of the streets as were formerly below high water mark must be paved at the expense of the property cwners. The Commissioner has already contracted to have six streets below the old high water mark paved, but there are mark above this mark in some cases only parts of a block, which cannot be paved without the consent of the Board of Aldermen. The work could be done at much less expense if it could be done by the same contractors who have the land grant contract, and at the same time. Then, too, there would be less obstruction to business.

Resolutions allowing this work to be done were presented at the last meeting of the Alderman. There were twenty members present, but Alderman Cowie voted against the resolutions and they were defeated.

Alderman Cowie was joined by Aldermen Martin and Van Cott in defeating the resolution to allow the Park Board to cooperate with the Department of Futile Works in paving Fifth avenue through Washington square, so that the work might be completed in time for the columbus parade. several streets on the west side which run to

SENATOR HILL 10 LIVE IN ALBANY. He Purchases the Beautiful Villa Built by the Late Fritz Emmet. ALBANY, Sept. 9. - Senator David B. Hill today becomes a permanent resident of Albany. For some time the beautiful villa just north of the city line, built by Joseph K. Emmet, the his widow. To-day Senator Hill put down $28,000 for it and will reside there in the fu-ture. The place was built by Fritz Emmet and is modelled after villas he saw while in Germany. It is said to have cost him $310,-000. It is surrounded by fifteen acres of land and contains thirty rooms. There are large brick stables, with finely appointed stalls, a lodge for the gatekeeper, a lake of three acres of pure spring water, stocked with game fish of pure spring water, stocked with game fish by the late Seth Green of the New York State Fish Commission. A young orchard contains choice fruit trees.

The grounds contain rare ornamental shrubs, plants, &c. There are gravelled walks throughout the grounds. Windmills pump the water to the house. There are complete Russian and Turkish baths, with a six-foot plunge bath, dressing rooms, &c. The billiard and smoking rooms are models of compieteness. Gas is made on the grounds, and there is a Steiner chemical fire extinguisher in case of fire. It was intimated to day that the house would not be long without a mistress, and that an Elmira girl would be installed there.

The villa is said to have cost Emmet $300,000, but Senator Hill paid $28,000 only for the place. Since Emmet & each the leaves have all grown up and the shrubbery of the park almost hides the house from view. Altogether it is at present a desolate-looking place. Senator Hill remained at the belavan to-day completing negotiations for his purchase.

TROOPS IN THE OCIOBER SHOW. Has the State Money Epough Available for

Ways and means for the accommodation of the troops of the various States which will participate in the Columbus celebration pade. Oct. 12. were discussed by the Committee on Military Affairs at a meeting held in the Secretary's office, 280 Broadway, yesterday. Rhode Island, Connecticut. New Jersey, and North Carolina will probably send troops of their National Guards. If the Rhode Island and Connecticut National Guards come by and Connecticut National Guards come by water, they can be quartered on their steamboats. Troops from other States and the New York National Guard from outside this city and Brooklyn will be cared for as far as possible in the local armories. Those not so sheltered will be cared for in tents. There is talk of putting up these tents in some of the city parks, if it is decided that the law allows such a thing. Should the entire force of the New York National Guard be present, the expense would be fully $100.000, an amount considerably in excess of what is available, owing to the sum expended by reason of the Buffalo strikes. The committee voted to send Senator McMahon and Adir. Gen. Porter to Albany to consult with Gov. Flower about the matter.

The State Agricultural Fair.

SYRACUSE, Sept. 9 .- The second day of the State Fair opened this morning with a small number in attendance. The exhibits are about all in, and are among the finest ever shown at any fair in the United States. The work of judging was begun this morning, and preniums were awarded in the cattle line to Joseph Hilton & Sons of New Scotland, a gold medal for the best herd of Devons; also for the best Devon buil and produce. The premium for a pair of steers broken to yoke was awarded to Smith Baker of Lafayette.

Gov. Flower will arrive here at B A. M. tomorrow and be escorted to the grounds at 11 A. M. by the officers of the Fair Boelety, the Thirty-fourth Soparate Company of Geneva, and the Forty-first Separate Company of this city. The Governor will lunch with President Parker of the society, and at 1:30 P. M. will deliver an address.

Parker of the society, and at 1:30 P. M. will deliver an address.

A feature of the fair is the exhibit from Judge Hilton's Woodlawn Park farm. His imported Southdown sheep are spiendid specimens of this breed, and his poultry excels all others. About 150 birds are in his exhibition coops, most of them prize fowls from New York. His imported machine for stuffing lowis is a novelty of his exhibit. By this process a fowl can be fattened in a few days.

THE WHITTIER FUNERAL.

By Direction of the Poer's Will, the Friends' Custome Will be Followed. AMESBURY, Mass., Sept. 9.—The arrange-ments for the funeral of Mr. Whittier have een completed. The body was brought here from Hampton Falls this morning and taken to the post's former home on Friend street. The body will lie in state between the hours of 12 and 2 o'clock to-morrow, so that the pubic may have the opportunity to view the remains. After the Quaker service the body will be taken to the cometery, where the entire Whittier lol will be covered with evergreens. After the remains are lowered in the ground the grave will be closed up by an arched brick roof. Stores and places of business will be closed from 2 to 4 o'clock. Many buildings are already draped in mourning. The Select-men have issued the following:

men have issued the following:
Our town has been saddened by the death of the great poet, and one of the noblest and mest beloved citizens. We feel that our country at large and the civilized world mourns with us the death of the poet and liberty-loving philanthropist, John G. Whittier, sharing the sadness which must come to the wise and good everywhere. We the people of Amesbury, mount the loss of a friend and noisylbory endeated to us by his lovable qualities and the practice of his shall life in our midst. We revered him for his quaintness and loved him for himself. Always identified with every good work in Amesbury, austaining the right and defending the oppressed, his life to us for more than half a century has been a daily sermon. If it be true that the heart speaketh most when the life moves not, we can only add that such a life, with its fulness of years and its crown of blessing, is a rich legacy to the community.

and its crown or blessing, is a rich legacy to the community.

Mr. Whittier left a will containing several bequests to charitable institutions as well as to relatives and friends. The item which refers to his funeral is as follows:

"It is my wish that my funeral may be conducted in the plain and quiet way of the Society of Friends with which I am connected, not only by birthright, but also by a settled conviction of the truth of its principles and the importance of its testimonies."

The following request is also contained in the will: "I entrust my manuscripts, letters, and papers to Samuel T. Pickard of Poitland, Mo., and request all who have lotters of mine to reirain from publishing them unless with his consent." It is expected that Mr. Pickard will superintend the preparation of the poet's biography.

PHILADELPHIA WILL GO TO-DAY. She Is Getting In Cont and Stores-Admiral Cherardl's Fing Hauted Down.

The cruiser Philadelphia did not leave the Navy Yard yesterday to go to La Guayra to look after American interests, but there was a ceremony on board at noon that is rarely witnessed at this port-the hauling down of the command flag of Rear Admiral Bancroft Gherardi. Promptly at noon the officers in their full uniforms assembled on the quarterdeck on the port side, and the crew were called to muster on the port side. Then Admiral Gherardi. escorted by Capt. A. S. Barker, commander of the Philadelphia, came from his cabin when the Philadelphia, came from his cabin when the Philadelphia's band began to play. After his the Admiral stepped forward and made a short but very complimentary address to the officers and crew who had sailed so many thousands of miles with him. Then the saiute of thirteeu guns was fired, and as the last gun was heard the blue flag with its-two white stars was hauled down, only to be hoisted again when he assumes command of his special squadron at San Francisco about Oct. I. Afterward, in the cabin, in bidding good-by to the officers, he addressed them highly for the condition and efficiency of the ship and crew.

On the deck, just before his flag was hauled down, his orders of detachment were read, and ha then read the orders to the commanding officers of the ships of his squadron to report by letter to his successor, acting lear Admiral John G. Walker. The Chicago left Newport at 3A. M. yesterday and reached here late in the atternoon. Previous to her arrival orders had been received at the vard from Admiral Walker to have stores and coal ready for his ship at 4 P. M., which was done. It is believed that he does not intend to transfer his flag to the Philadelphia, but will go to La Guayra with the Chicago, as he has always had a preference for that vessel as his flagship. The Philadelphia will be ready for sea by noen to-day. the Philadelphia's band began to play. After

FEARED SHE MIGHT BE INSINE, So Mrs. Jaques of West Huboken Lauged Herself on Vieduesday Afternoon,

Mrs. A. J. Jaques committed suicide on Wednesday afternoon at her home, 176 Clinton avenue. West Hoboken. The fact of her death was made known on Thursday, but it was not learned outside of the family until yesterday morning that she had taken her own life. Mrs. Jacques was about 50 years old. She was the wife of ex-Assessor A. J. Jaques. She had been in poor health for about two years, and was addleted to fits of melancholy. On two previous occasions she attempted to kill her-self, but was prevented by the watchfulness of her relatives. On Wednesday afternoon Mr. Jaques had occasion to leave home to attend to some business. He left his twelve-year-old Jaques had occasion to leave home to attend to some business. He left his twelve-year-old daughter Florrie in the house and told her to keep a watch on her mother. He had been gone only a short time when Mrs. Jaques, who seemed to be in an unusually cheerful mood, sent Florrie out on an errand. When the child returned she could not find her mother, but was not worried, supposing that she had gone to visit some of the neighbors. Nevertheless, she went around the neighbor-hood to find her.

Mr. Jaques returned home early in the evening and found the house deserted. He called his wife and daughter, but there was no response. Then he searched through the house, and found his wife hanging by a strap from one of the rafters in the garret. He cut her down and tried to resuscitate her, but his efforts were fruitless. Mrs. Jaques left a letter in which she begged her husband and daughters to forgive her. She wrote that life had become a burden to her since she was not able to attend to her wifely dutles, and she feared that she might become insanc. Mr. Jaques's eldest daughter is the wife of Tax Commissioner John Prigge of Jersey City.

BERKMAN HINTS AT SUICIDE Willing to Accept Ten Years' Imprison-ment for His Assault on Frick.

PITTSBURGE, Sept. 9 .- "If I don't get more than ten years I can stand it, but I will not stand any longer term of sentence." said Anarchist Berkman to-day in talking about his coming trial and resulting senten-

"Do you mean you will kill yourself if you get more than ten years?" was asked.
"Well, you can draw your own conclusions. I believe there is nothing beyond this life, and while life under some circumstances is spend a lifetime is prison with the prospect of a few years of liberty after my sentence has expired. I have no fears for the hereafter tecausa I believe there is more. I have studied this question and am fully determined.

"I fully realize the consequences of my aftempt on the life of Mr. Frick. I did so when I attempted to kill him, and was prepared to suffer the consequences had he died. I would prefer to be hanged than to spend a lifetime in prison. I know I could get about thirty years, but it is either ten years with me orwell, you will see."

Herkman does not give Mr. Frick credit for the coolness and nerve claimed for him when the assault took place. Its said: "He was the worst scared man I ever saw. He elleved I meant to kill him, as I certainly did, and he had a right to be scared, as he certainly was." spend a lifetime in prison with the prospect of IGNORANT OF THE OUISIDE WORLD. A Girl of $3 Kept Secluded in Her Connecti-cut Home all Her Life.

Ansonia, Conn., Sept. 9.- The local humans agent's attention was recently called to the case of a woman 22 years old. living in the centre of Torrington, a little town up the Naugatuck Valley, who has never during her life been out of doors, never been to church or Bunday school, and has, as far as possible. been kept in ignorance of the world about her. The King's Daughters and the Woman's Re-

The King's Daughters and the Woman's Relief Corps have interested themselves in the case, and the girl has been provided with suitable clothing. Recently she has been taken to Sunday schools and to a piente. The scenes were strange and bewidering to her, and her pleasure was so great that she seemed about to go wild with joy.

The reason first given by those who had held the girl in confinement all these years was that she was too fil-looking to be seen in public and that she had no clothes to wear. As the girl is quite pretty when she is dressed in suitable clothing this reason was plainly a manufactured one. Afterward it was learned the real reason was that an elder sister of the girl had been led astray, and her parents defermined to save the younger one from any such fate by keeping her from the temptations of the world. The young woman is not ignorant, having been fairly well taught by her parents.

NEW BOOKS Spief Reviews of Important and Interesting New Publications.

"A Family Cance Trip," by Florence Watters Snedeker, makes a volume in the charming miniature "Black and White Series" Harper & Brothers), and is a bit of narrative in a fresh vein. It is simple, sprightly, graceful, and agreeable. The trip was made up the Hudson and through the canal to Glens Falls, thence across country in a cart to Lake George. and so on to Lake Champlain and to the canoe meet at Willsborough Point. This was the meet of 1801, we suppose, and an exceptionally attractive one it was, both in fact and according to the rare impressionist glimpses afforded in this account. Anybody may enjoy this little book, no matter what his understanding of canoes may be, or what his sympathy with paddling. The author had experiences and eceived impressions, and this is the sensitive and discriminating record of them. There is poetry, psychology, and interesting fact in the parrative. Numerous and beautiful illustrations adorn the text. We recommend "A Family Canoe Trip" to everybody who is capable of understanding a delightful piece of work. M. Guernay de Beaurepaire, Procureur-General of France, known as a romancer under the pseudonym of Jules de Glouvet, stands as a writer of fletion in contrast and antagonism to the realistic school, and represents the school of idealists, who, we are told, maintain that vice, and particularly sexual vice, is not the only interesting thing in the world. "The Woodman." a translation by Mrs. John Shipman of one of M. Beaurepaire's characteristic 'rustic romances." is published by Harper & Brothers, and offers an excellent opportunity for the English reader to judge for himself whether or not the idealists are taking a reasonable view of things. It is the story denizen of the great forest known as the Chemins Verts, a sort of savage of astonishing prowess, who comes to be a poacher, and who loses his life as a penalty for shocting deer and wild pigs against the law. It is a tale in high poetic strain, idealistic to a certainty. and very beautifully told. If the reader concludes that he does not like it as well as one of Maupassant's stories, he can still feel at least ishing contrast to any that Maupassant ha In "The Rovings of a Restless Boy" (Cassell Company), Mrs. Katharine B. Foot sets down the experiences of a Boston lad who was oppressed by the humdrum of home and who ran away to see if he could not meet with more exciting experiences in the world outside. It hardly needs Mrs. Foot's assurance to satisf the reader that this is a plain record of fact. There is no page in which so much is not madapparent. The boy found the excitement h coveted. He sailed the sea and journeyed afoot, begged and carned wages, was beaten. starved, robbed, and frostbitten, and met with good treatment along with the bad. It is a narrative packed with plain detail, set down. Mrs. Foot tells us, almost exactly in the rover's own words. It has the fascination of a true story of varied and picturesque adventure. To begin to read is to continue reading. It is a look into the rough world, at once strange and credible. The reader will need to expend no effort in order to become absorbed in it.

Mrs. Oliphant tells the story of an exceedingly accommodating Italian gentleman in "Diana; The History of a Great Mistake" (United States Book Company). The mistake consists in the marriage of the gentleman to one girl, when his wish and intention were to marry another. It seems not a little unreasonable to suppose that he could really have been diverted from his purpose in the simple manner which Mrs. Oliphant alleges. He is a resident of Pisa, and makes the acquaintance there of several English tourists, among them Diana, a supero heiress of thirty, and Sophy, a pretty but entirely colorless person some-what younger. Diana is his choice, for he is a discrimitating gentleman, but he weakly conceives the idea of declaring himself by proxy. and the agent blunders, and the consequence is that Sophy gets the declaration and that the heiress remains the spinster that her name implies. Fortunately for the feelings of the reader, she does not much care, and the Italian gentleman is no sort of a person to expend sympathy upon. He is entirely honorable, and speaks English without an accent, but he is rather gruelly.

Mr. William Watson, an Englishman, who fought on the Confederate side in the war of secession, and who wrote a book of interesting detail about life in the Southern army. has written a new book of detail, likewise interesting, concerning another variety of his experience in the course of that great conflict. Having been wounded at the battle of Corinth. bought a schooner called the Rob Roy, and engaged in the running of cargoes in and out of the blockaded Southern ports. His new book, called "The Adventures of a Blockade Runner; or, Trade in Time of War," makes another characteristic volume in the curious and instructive "Adventure Series" (Macmillan & Co.). The narrative is not marked by any high degree of literary or graphic art. but it is crowded with incident and general information, and it has a value and interest peculiar to chronicles of the kind. The reader will feel that, if the narrator has omitted an single detail of his extended experiences, it could not have been a detail amounting to very much. A number of spirited drawings by Capt. Byng of the British navy add to the attractions of the volume. "In Arctic Seas," by Dr. Robert N. Keely. Jr., and Dr. G. G. Davis (Edward Stern & Co., Philadelphia), is a narrative of the voyage of the steamer Kite, which carred the Peary expedition to North Greenland in the summer of 1891. It is a clear, well told, interesting account. It describes the members of the expedition, the Captain and crew of the Kite, incidents of the voyage, the Greenland settlements and their inhabitants, and the appearance, condition, and manner of life of the native people. The Kite had exciting experiences both going and coming, and this chronicle gives very clear and effective impressions of the dangers of Arctic travel and of the various peculiar aspects of the frozen zone. It describes also the plaps of Lieut. Peary, and has a map indicating the overland journey which it was his purpose to make during the past summer. Numerous photographic illustra-tions add to its value and interest.

GEORGE WILLIAM CURTIS

From the Easy Chair. By GEORGE WILLIAM CURTIS. With Portrait 16mo, Cloth, Ornamental, $1.00.

They are charming essays, indeed. They renew the zest of life. They solace, they beguile, they repay.-N. Y. Sun. The essays have lost nothing of their actuality: their freshness of humor: their comtagion of cheerful philosophy; their breathing, historical interest; their wit, that fits like a cap on Wisdom's head; their tenderness of humanity.-Philadelphia Ledger.

Masterpieces in miniature, showing rare feeling and great felicity of expression.-Oritic, N. Y.

There are twenty-seven brief articles, comprising a great variety of subjects. and every one of these is a literary and descriptive gem of the first water. - Observer, N. Y.

These charming little papers range over a considerable variety of topics, and in every one the lightness of hand, the grace and polish of style, the playful, genial humor, to which the American reading public has so long been accustomed, constitute the distinctive traits of the papers .- N. Y. Tribune.

LAURENCE HUTTON.

From the Books of Laurence Hutton. With Portrait. 16mo. Cloth, Ornamental, $1.00.

Mr. Hutton has the happiest knack in write ing a volume of this kind. His touch is graces ful, his acquaintance with the subjects there ough, and he never imposes with unnecessary erudition.-N. F. Times.

Mr. Hutton seems always to have read with a purpose, and to have read only what was calculated to further that purpose. His reading has been exact and scholarly, and his memory. if not exhaustive, is accurate and as delightful as it is apt .- N. Y. Mail and Express.

Mr. Hutton always writes about books and the writers of books in an extremely interesting fashion. . . . As Mr. Hutton is one of the most delightful of literary critics, and a student of the mechanical side of books as well, this latest contribution of his to the book shelves of the bibliophile is valuable and will be appreciated .- Cincinnati Comme-

THOMAS W. HIGGINSON.

Concerning All of Us. By THOMAS WENTWORTH HIGGINSON. With Portrait. 16mo, Cloth, Ornamental, $1.00.

Colonel Higginson has the advantage of a sound and simple philosophy of life to show off his fine literary culture. The one makes him worth reading-strong, open-minded and wholesome; the other gives him graces of form, style, and literary attraction in great variety. It is hard to decide whether the charm or the usefulness of the present colection of essays preponderates. - Independent

N. Y. Mr. Higginson is at once a humorist and a satirist, glancing with a sharp but kindly eye at the social phases and follies of the period. His range is large, his touch is light, and his scholarly illustrations and recollections are apt and delightful.-N. Y. Mail and Express.

CHARLES DUDLEY WARNER

As We Were Saying. By CHARLES DUDLEY WARNER. With Portrait. and Illustrated by H. W. Mo-VICKAR and Others. 16mo, Cloth. Ornamental, $1.00.

Mr. Warner possesses the faculty of putting his thoughts into excellent English, while the simplicity of his style, the absence of all straining after effect, and the apparently spontaneous character of his wit, sufficiently account for the high reputation lie enjoys among the American humorists.-Episcopal Recorder. Philadelphia.

The book is a charming one to take up at odd moments, and its graceful style and delicate humor will commend it to the attention of cultivated readers everywhere. - Saturday Evening Gazette, Poston.

So dainty and delightsome a little book may it be everybody's good hap to possess. - Evangelist, N. Y. Mr. Warner has such a fine fancy, such a clever way of looking at the things that interest everybody, such a genial humor, that one never tires of him or the children of his pen-

Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette. WILLIAM DEAN HOWELLS.

Criticism and Fiction. By WIL-LIAM DEAN HOWELLS. With Portrait. 16mo, Cloth, Ornamental. $1.00.

Mr. Howells is charming. One finds no end of pleasure reading these light, bright, piquant pages. Many a good thing and many a true thing is here elothed in the diction of a master and giving forth the bouquet of a style as delicately vigorous, so to say, as any in Eng. lish literature. - Independent, N. Y. Mr. Howells is exceedingly well qualified for his judgment is tempered by delicate tact. which again is hold in check by a sense of responsibility, profound as it is rare.-Philadelphia Leiger. The lest half of the essays are rich in felicitous passages on the literature of fiction, and one gets an idea of the real value of novels (as the office he has undertaken; the directness of

well as of critics) in perusing this book,-Boston Traveller. Published by HARPER & BROTHERS, New York.

as The above works are for sale by all booksellers, or will be sent by the publishers, postage prepaid, to any part of the United States, Consess. or Mexico, on receipt of price.
